The Buffalo Dance.

Among the Indians of the Northern plains is a custom called "dancing the buffalo." It is resorted to when the Indians have great difficulty in finding buffalo—a difficulty which has been growing more pronounced every year, until of late the poor Indian finds his "buffalo medicine dance" fail universally, and he has all but lost faith in it. And yet it has but rarely failed before, for the peculiar strength of the "medicine" lies in the fact that when the medicine dance is once started it is kept up religiously night and day until the outriders discover buffalo, and, as the Indian reasons, the dance brought them The Crows had a dance recently. They believe that the Great Spirit has secluded the buffalo temporarily, but that as soon as he recovers from his sulk he will send them back again. The Crow dance did bring a half-dozen old bulls to the Crow hunters; not much meat, to be sure, but a sure sign of the strength of the medicine.

Ten or a dozen men dance at a time, and as they grow weary and leave their places, others take them, and so keep up the ceremony. They wear the head or mask of a buffalo, which each warrior is supposed to keep in his outfit; the tails are often attached to these by a long piece of hide. Drums are beaten, rattles shaken, and the usual Indian yelling is kept up. The hunters all have their arms ready, and the outlaying hills are patrolled. These dances have been kept up in certain villages for two or three weeks on a stretch without stopping an instant. When a man becomes fatigued he signifies it by bowing quite low, when another draws a bow and hits him with a blunt arrow. He falls to the ground, and is dragged off by the spectators, who proceed to butcher him in play, much after the fashion of children; for the Indian in his sportive moods is for all the world like an overgrown boy.

In all the different dances the Indians have a special step. It reaches the zenith of muscular exertion and extravagance in the war dance, and is very quiet in certain medicine dances, the bodies seeming scarcely to move. In the buffalo dance they follow around in a circle, lifting their feet and undulating their bodies. Alas for the buffalo, and also for the poor Indian too, the buffalo dance will no longer bring the countless thousands of bison to the sight of the hunter, and the only meat he will ever eat ranges between Government steers and sage hens.—Harper's Weekly.

Cattle Speculators.

If every farmer in California would raise his own beef, pork and mutton there would be less of the speculation in meat, which is now a severe retail tax upon the consumer. The cattle and sheep speculators are all about the country buying at four to five and a half cents a pound, and selling in the towns and cities at ten to eighteen cents per pound. The only place where these matters can be effectually discussed is in the Grange, and yet farmers remain outside.

According to an exchange, beef cattle in Chicago are 25 cents lower than a year ago, 75 cents to $1 lower than two years ago, and something like $2 lower than in the corresponding time in 1884. There has been no corresponding reduction in the cost of beef to the consumer. During 1884 there was no time when extra beeves were not salable at $6 50 and in September of that year $7 50 was paid. In former times the supply and demand governed the price of products of all kinds. Now both producer and consumer are at the mercy of the speculator. They are obliged to take and give what is offered and demanded; and yet there are hundreds of farmers who can see no need of organizing their forces for the protection of farming interests.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in expermenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption seems at first only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived but insist on getting Dr. King's New Discovery which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free at Wegner's Drug Store. 6

Milk may be canned just as you would can fruit. Bring the milk to the boiling point and fill your jars to the brim with it; then shut airtight. This will keep any length of time and be just as good when opened as when it was put up.

She was admiring a big Newfoundland at the dog show, and, throwing her arms around his neck, said: 'You dear old fellow, I love you!' A youth who heard her remarked: 'How I wish I were a dog.' The answer came from the same sweet lips: 'Never mind, dear; you'll grow.'—Judge.

EVENING.

His signal fire the sun drops down the west,
And marshals all his cloudy hosts aright,
Retreating from his vantage ground oppressed
By the advancing armies of the night.

Slow fade the crimson banners from the blue:
A holy hush broods o'er the earth's calm breast,
One sound alone breaks the deep silence through,
A sleepy bird complaining from its nest.
—Clare Beatrice Coffey in Inter Ocean.

THE TRAIN DISPATCHER.

A Man Who Holds the Life of Every Passenger in His Hand.

There is a class of railway employes, almost entirely unknown to passengers, whose responsibility is so much greater, and whose slightest omission might jeopardize the lives of people on trains more than any oversight on the part of conductors or engineers, that it is indeed strange that they are so seldom mentioned in the public prints. This class is the train dispatchers, whose every order is implicitly obeyed by trainmen; and while the crew of one train is responsible for the movements of that train alone, the dispatcher holds in his hands the lives of every individual on every train on the road; and on a road having a large traffic the duties imposed on him are very great and arduous.

His position in the railway service is unique; were all trains running on time and provided for on the periodical time table issued by the company, he would have no duties to perform; but trains will get delayed and occasions will arise requiring extra trains, or trains without any specified time or rights, to be run over the road, and then his services are necessary to avoid hours of delay.

All trains on railroads are divided in classes, according to their importance; generally two, passenger and freight; and all trains of one class running in a specified direction have the right of the road, or need keep no lookout for trains of the same or a lower class running in the opposite direction. Thus it is assumed that on a certain railroad trains running eastward have the right of way over trains running westward; then an east bound passenger train can run the whole length of the road in entire disregard of all trains; another passenger train going west need only to look out for the east bound passenger train, while the freight trains must keep out of the way of both passenger trains and of the freight train which is running in the direction prescribed as having the right of road.

Every one understands that all trains are chartered, or have a time given for passing each station, which time can in no instance be anticipated, and hence all trainmen know where all other trains ought to be at any particular moment, if on time; but as trains frequently and generally get late, the train of inferior class must have its movement expedited by some extraneous cause, or it may be delayed for hours awaiting a train that may have been wrecked, or has been kept back for some other of many causes. Then the duties of the train dispatcher are of importance. He will probably give an order to the delayed train by telegraph directing it not to go beyond a certain place which he thinks it can reach without difficulty, and he directs the opposing train to proceed to the same place and there pass the other train, and in that manner the trains are enabled to pass each other without any delay to either. His great responsibility consists in that he may have a dozen other trains in his charge at the same time, and in directing one train to go beyond its usual place to meet another he may neglect to give an order to the second train, and in such an event a collision would probably ensue, much property be destroyed and probably lives be lost.

It will readily be seen that the slightest mistake of a train dispatcher might cause serious results; and in this respect his responsibility is probably greater than that of any other individual under whose charge the public are placed.—Philadelphia Times.

New Uses for the Shoe Buttoner.

It is a singular fact that nine out of ten of the bums and tramps brought into the station house have on their person a shoe buttoner. No matter what kind of shoes they wear, still they have one of these simple instruments. Lieut. Hambrock decided a week ago to make a collection of the shoe buttoners taken from the prisoners brought into Bremen street station. In the seven days they numbered eighteen, and like young ladies do with their strings of buttons, he attached them together. He has now a chain some three feet in length. A peculiar thing is that the hook end is bent into a variety of shapes. The penchant for having buttoners attracted the attention of the detectives long ago, and it happened to strike some bright minded policemen that the little instrument could be made to do the work of a skeleton key, as far as the locks in common use were concerned. In reality, the shoe buttoner, to all intents and purposes was converted into a burglar's tool, and still could be readily passed off as a necessary implement in arranging one's toilet. The possession of a skeleton key is a serious offense and carries with it conviction of a penal term. The law, however, cannot regard the shoe buttoner as a contraband article, and still the evil intending are as well fortified with it as with the burglar's favorite tool, since, when properly shaped, it does the work equally as well. The expert can pick a lock with one of these little iron hooks with as much facility as if he had a skeleton key, and yet if caught with it in his possession enjoys immunity from the statute covering the offense. Usually, when one of these instruments is found on a prisoner's person it is thrown away, or perhaps given back if the owner is released. No doubt in the course of a year several hundred are taken up by the police. The amount of theft that could be traced to them would very probably prove startling.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Going to Be a Smash Up.

Blobson found his little boy crying the other day, and upon asking him what was the matter, the precocious infant sobbed: "Oh, pa! I'm afraid there's going to be a smash up. Ma said she was going to spank me, and she's just been rubbing nitro glycerine on her hands!"—Burlington Free Press.

The Pie and the Child.

George Augustus Sala, when in this country, said: "I object but to two things in America—the pie and the hotel child. Not until that child is made into the pie will I tolerate either."

ACROSS SIBERIA.

SLEDGE TRAVELING OVER NORTHERN ASIA'S SNOW AND ICE.

A Formidable Array of Baggage—Provisions for Repelling the Attacks of Frost—The Sledge Bells of Siberia—A Lower Temperature.

Three shaggy, ungroomed horses appeared in sight. Astride the first sat a yemstchik bearing before him a huge douga—the wooden arch which forms so conspicuous a portion of the harness of every draft horse in Russia, from the Baltic to the Pacific. Brilliant with blue and red and green paint, it presented—when fastened to the shafts above the head of the central horse of our troika—a striking contrast to the dingy vehicle which for the next nine weeks was to be our home—a large, deep, roughly built sledge, open in front, but covered in at the back with a canvas hood lined with thick felt. The yemstchik's seat consisted of a flat board, apparently designed by a coach builder ignorant of the fact that a sledge driver is, like other other human beings, gifted with a pair of legs. From this board sloped downward and outward, till their points nearly touched the ground on either side of the sledge, a pair of stout ash poles, designed partially to prevent the vehicle from overturning, and partially like the scythes of an ancient British war chariot, as weapons of defense and attack. Into the bottom of this sledge our formidable array of baggage, including a goodly supply of canned and frozen provisions, was quickly packed; and over the whole was spread a thick, folding mattress of raw cotton, which was to serve as a cushion by day and a bed by night. We were well provided with armor to repel the attacks of frost. With legs incased in dog-skin socks, goat's hair stockings and thick felt boots reaching to above the knees, with double deerskin kukliankas—an excellent hooded garment of Kamchatdale manufacture, similar in appearance to the Esquimau dress—with long, black shubas or coats of sheepskin, with fur caps covering the ears, and gloves made like those of our infancy, having one receptacle for the thumb and one for the four fingers jointly, with a stout, felt lined rug or sheepskin, and an apron of felt attached to the front of the sledge, we were convinced that the cold need have but little terror for us.

The packing of a Siberian sledge is a science which cannot be mastered in a single lesson; but after some difficulty all was arranged for a fairly comfortable start, and, waving farewells to the friends who had collected to witness the setting out of our expedition, we went away at a gallop on the first of the four hundred odd stages which were before us. The effects of the recent pourga soon became painfully apparent. The slopes of the hills at the back of the port were entirely denuded of snow, and it was with difficulty that the horses could drag the heavy laden sledge up the steep inclines. Then in the valleys the deep snowdrifts gave scarcely less trouble. But in a little while the road improved, the sun shone out brightly, and the weather was so mild that a single sheepskin coat was more than sufficient for warmth. The exhilarating sensation of gliding over a snow road, with three fresh, high spirited horses galloping before us, raised our spirits, and a sledge journey through Asia bore the aspect of a pleasant holiday excursion. As soon as we were clear of the town, the yemstchik descended from his perch and loosened the clappers of two large bells suspended in the douga, and we had our first taste of the music which was to accompany us from the Pacific to the Urals. The sledge bells of Siberia are not the tinkling silver bells of Poe's fancy. They are often as large as an ordinary English dinner bell. They vary in number from one up to five or six, and are not always tuned to harmony. At first the ceaseless clanging is by no means agreeable, but after a time the ear becomes accustomed to it, and when on one or two occasions, while traveling with private horses, no bells were supplied to us, we felt that something was wanting to the due enjoyment of sledging.

After a two hours' journey over hills and through woods, with frequent pleasant glimpses of the sea and the surrounding islands, we arrived at the first post station. Here we had a substantial foretaste of the many trials of patience in store for us. Only four troikas, or teams of three horses, were kept at this station for government posting purposes, and we were therefore more grieved than surprised to learn that we had fourteen hours to wait before proceeding on our journey. The delay, however, afforded us an opportunity of studying more closely the science of sledge packing, and having ordered the "eternal samovar"—the handy tea urn which is every Russian's almost inseparable companion—we made ourselves as comfortable as the circumstances permitted. At 1 o'clock in the morning—a little before the fourteen hours expired—the grateful sound of harnessing horses struck upon our ears; and a few minutes later three sledges, our own, with four horses attached, bringing up the rear, were toiling up a steep hill in the midst of the black night. It requires a certain amount of practice to sleep in a sledge on a rough, hilly road, with the knowledge that every two or three hours, or less, one must alight at a station, ascertain and pay the fare for the next stage, select and present to the yemstchik a pourboire in accordance with his deserts, see fresh horses harnessed, and repack oneself in the vehicle; and for the first night certainly the novelty of our situation drove all thoughts of sleep from our heads.

Soon we found ourselves sledging, though but for a short distance, on the frozen sea. It was a curious sensation to be for the first time on a heavy sledge over deep water; and it was difficult to prevent the mind from speculating on the probable results of a crash through the ice. The three sledges, however, made the passage in safety, and soon afterward drew up at the lonely post station of Tigrova, so called because it is in the midst of a favorite haunt of the large tigers which infest the eastern coast of Asiatic Russia. These animals are not infrequently met by travelers on the post roads of the maritime province; but having a plentiful supply of deer's meat always within reach, they rarely attack men unless they are themselves attacked first.

The sheltering hills of Vladivostock were now left far behind, and the difference in temperature became very perceptible. The thermometer fell for the first time below zero. The interior of our sledge hood became white with hoar frost, and every heavy jolt brought down on our heads a miniature snowfall; two long icicles suspended themselves from my companion's mustache, and effected a junction with the collar of his shuba, while the long hair of the horses became covered with frozen perspiration. No difficulty was now experienced in obtaining horses, and, waiting just long enough at each station to exchange our tired beasts for fresh ones, and twice to snatch hasty meals, we pushed on for the Khanka lake. Through a pretty country, constantly ascending and descending steep hills, we glided along, sometimes fast, sometimes slow, the speed varying in direct proportion to the energy of the yemstchik and the strength of his lungs.—London Standard.

Parrots in Need of Reformation.

"Speaking of reforming bad animals," said Mr. Burns, "I am now trying to improve the morals of a bad parrot. I saw in the paper that a man is advertising for a swearing parrot, one that can curse up hill and down dale in several languages preferred, but he will do if he is really talented at English swearing. That is a most uncommon advertisement. The worst trouble with parrots is that sailors teach them to swear, and then people do not want them. They are hard to sell. I suppose the person who put that advertisement in the paper wanted the bird for a bar room or some other resort where cursing is congenial and amusing. Well, this bird which was sent to me to-day would suit that person, I am sure. Such a swearer I never heard. It rips out string after string of the most appalling oaths—English, Spanish, French, but principally plain sulphurous Saxon. It was sent to me from Brooklyn to be broken of the habit. The people couldn't have it in the house, and they did not like to part with it, it is such a smart bird. There is only one way to break them of swearing, and that is by keeping them covered up and in the dark until they forget everything they know. Then you have to begin afresh and give them their education all over again—a good moral education. You can cure them this way. I have cured many by that plan. Parrots forget readily if treated to solitude and darkness. This particular parrot had been the property for a long time of a sailor, and had made several voyages with him. The man who wants a swearing parrot can be accommodated if he searches the forecastles of ships coming from the tropics."—New York Sun.

Railroads in War.

The first thing for a boy or a girl to remember in considering war is that soldiers must eat. It is generally supposed that the most important duty of a soldier is to fight; but this is a mistake. He must eat before he can fight, and more battles have been lost because commanders could not feed their armies than because they could not fight the enemy.

The control of the railroads is the object of every great campaign in modern war. Whoever holds the railroads can move troops and ammunition and food to the important point more quickly than the enemy. And everything depends upon being stronger than your enemy at the important point. One man is nearly as good as another man, at least on the average. Ten thousand men of one nation are nearly sure to be worth 10,000 of another; and certainly in the great American war, where all the men were of the same nation, there was little difference in the fighting quality of the opposing forces. One side had more dash, the other more endurance; one perhaps went into battle more furiously, the other I should say held out more stubbornly; but in the end the men on one side were about as good for fighting purposes as those on the other. Whoever had most men, therefore, was most likely to win. But they must be equipped and fed. To have more men than you can feed is worse than not having enough.—St. Nicholas.

The Irrepressible Office Boy.

When the telephone was introduced into the offices of Christendom a great many men sent away their office boys and fancied that they could get on without them. But the office boys came back. Like truth crushed to earth they rose again and asserted their indispensable value. The office boy knows that he is an autocrat, and while he may never presume upon his position outwardly, he carries the signs of authority and of power around with him. He is tardy, he is lazy, he is forgetful, but he looks calmly into the eyes of his reproving employer without flinching. He will stay forty-five minutes on a ten minutes' errand and bob up serenely without thought of an apology. If on his return his superior officer plucks up courage to inquire if he has had a pleasant vacation, he will stare and reply, "What, sir?" with a well cultivated stupidity. If an office boy could be patented who would be warranted to take in, or at least smile at, all of his master's jokes, this world of toil and trouble would be a sunnier spot.—Boston Advertiser.

Can Sit Perfectly Still.

It is said the Japanese can sit stiller than any other people, their habit of self control being from earliest childhood a part of their conscientious duty. I watched two Japanese students at the terrific thunder and lightning tragedy of "Clito" the other evening, and through the whole play I was in rapt admiration at the way in which these Japanese gentlemen maintained their most perfect and invincible calm. Such self control as theirs must command respect and wonder. No lurid scenes of Athenian splendor; no jealousy, terror or despair, not even murder and death, could relax a muscle of their grave and rigid faces. Not a word during the performance did they exchange; not once did they move their programmes. They enjoyed the good acting and the attractive stage setting probably to as great, if not a greater, degree than many of their neighbors, but their faces did not proclaim it. How it makes one wish that a greater proportion of our audiences were of that artistic, beautifully self governed people who can sit perfectly still.—Boston Post.

The Siwashes Remember Their Dead.

The Indians, about 200 strong, assembled the other day on McKay creek, near the county road leading to Pilot rock, to commemorate the death of a young Indian named Barnhart, who had his feet frozen off several winters ago and died from the effects of it about this time last year. A wigwam about a hundred feet long was crowded with the friends of the deceased, who offered up gifts to his memory, consisting of ponies, blankets, money, clothing and other valuables. The mother of young Barnhart, the deceased, received twenty ponies, a large number of blankets, some money and a great quantity of other chattels from sympathetic friends. Others of the Indians were remembered by their friends also. It was an imposing spectacle to see them sitting around the sides of the wigwam, silent and dignified. In one end stood an aged man calling out the names of parties receiving presents, and in the other end of the wigwam an aged woman, repeating his words in a voice which added solemnity to the occasion.—East Oregonian.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

E. E. SMITH ..... EDITOR

SONOMA, MAY 28, 1887.

Communications upon matters of local or general interest solicited.

Communications designed to call attention to any matter of limited or individual interest will not be inserted unless paid for as advertisements.

The author's real name must accompany all communications, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. This rule will not be deviated from

THE editor of the Cloverdale Reveille, who has been in the habit of inserting gratuitous advertising for church festivals, lodges, balls and socials in the shape of free and promiscuous "puffing" in the columns of his paper, has at last discovered the error of his way, and in an editorial in his issue of last week announces that hereafter free puffs will be dispensed with. It appears his policy of inserting free notices has reduced his income to such an extent that he was compelled to do what he should have done when he assumed control of the Reveille several years ago, that is to say, to make it an invariable rule of his office to demand payment for advertising, no matter in what shape it might present itself. If all our country contemporaries would adopt such a rule we would hear less of poor editors and the wail that goes up in the columns of their papers of "pay up," "wood and potatoes taken for subscriptions," etc. Brother Bauer in his article says:

A newspaper is considered by some people as public property and its columns open for the use of parties to derive personal benefits without any remuneration to the publisher. If, in our instance, were we financially able we would gladly throw open our columns free of charge to announcing church entertainments and lodge balls and socials and willingly pay the admission fee and then write up a laudatory article on the affair. But, as above hinted, our means are limited and the patronage derived from Cloverdale is not very encouraging, so we are compelled to state that hereafter we must receive remuneration for all announcements and reserve the privilege of commenting as our judgment dictates.

Now, we take it that the state of the publisher's finances has nothing whatever to do with the matter. His advertising columns, like the merchant's wares, is a portion of his stock in trade, and one might as reasonably expect a merchant because he is rich to allow a fellow to throw himself inside a suit of clothes gratis as to assume because an editor is prosperous that he should do his work for nothing. Our proposition is that it makes no difference whether the publisher can stand it or not; if he wishes to be reasonably successful he ought to make it an ironclad rule never to insert advertising matter for individual gain, no matter in what shape it may present itself, without remuneration. It is the rule of this office and one which is never deviated from.

THE Pure Wine Law passed by the last Legislature goes into effect on the first Monday in June. We are informed by the Chief Viticultural Officer, J. H. Wheeler, that Professor Rising, the State Analyst, is engaged in the examination of wines that are soon to be placed on the market with the pure wine stamp affixed to the package. The stamps are being printed by the State Controller. In a few days the Viticultural Commission will issue a circular containing the text of the Stamp law and giving instructions as to the cost and issuing of the stamps.

IN the third part of his "Mexican Notes," shortly to appear in Harper's Magazine for June, Charles Dudley Warner continues his brilliant descriptions of travel through the anomalous reigen occupied by our southern neighbor. In this instalment he visits Vera Cruz, Esperanza, Cordova, San Juan, Jalapa and Coatepec, and the narrator's charm envelops the whole country with a sparkling interest.

REV. D. O. KELLY, a minister of Fresno, was sued for defamation of character by Miss. J. Clinton Jones. He had circulated reports derogatory to Miss Jones' character and in consequence she sued for $10,000 damages. The jury, on Monday, awarded the lady $1000.

HONG DI, the brutal Chinese murderer, who killed Mrs. Billiou, in Butte county, some time since, has been arrested.

IT is estimated that there are 9,500,000 gallons of wine still remaining in Sonoma and Napa cellars.

PRINCE BISMARCK is ill.

THE RAILROAD SITUATION.

This subject has been worn threadbare by the local press of Sonoma county within the past year, and we therefore beg the indulgence of our readers for touching upon it and ask that they will not ring the chestnut bell on us. At the present time there appears to be more action and less talk in railroad circles in regard to the projected lines in this part of the county. The other day the contract for grading the Donahue extension of the Sonoma Valley Railroad from Pacheco to Napa Junction was very quietly let. There was no flourish of trumpets over the event, and it now really looks as though Colonel Donahue means business.

The Santa Rosa and Carquinez Railroad people also appear to be in earnest. As the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is interested in this road, something tangible may come out of it. The surveyors of the latter road are busily engaged in surveying the proposed route and are now encamped in the vicinity of Glen Ellen. To encourage the building of this road $40,300, the entire amount asked for as a subsidy, has been subscribed by the people of Santa Rosa and vicinity, and as the building of this road was contingent upon the raising of this sum, we can see no reason for further delay.

Sonoma Valley possesses everything that goes to make up a prosperous community, if we except its railroad facilities. Our climate and scenery is the finest in the world. Our citrus and all other kinds of fruit cannot be beat. Sonoma Valley wines have the reputation of being the very finest in the State, and, like our fruits, always command a higher figure than those produced elsewhere. The only thing that is lacking is proper railroad facilities. Give us these and there is nothing that is wanting to make Sonoma Valley one of the most deairable places for home-seekers to be found on God's footstool.

THE average sewing machine agent's nerve is phenomenal. It does not disturb his equanimity in the least to have the front door slammed in his face by a Chinese servant. The savage watch dog nor the curt answer of the pestered housewife have no terrors for him. He pursueth the even tenor of his way in a smiling, bland and self-confident manner, and his sang froid never deserts him, else he would disgrace his calling. The nerve of ye sewing machine man could not be better exemplified than it was the other day when Hong Di, the brutal Chinese murderer, was captured and turned over to the authorities by a sewing machine agent. He was riding along a lonely road and came suddenly upon Di, who made demonstrations to shoot and then took to his heels. Although alone and unarmed, the sewing machine man deserted his team and started in hot pursuit over the hills, and after an exciting chase captured his man. Leading him back to the road, he was met by a farmer who had witnessed the pursuit and capture, but who evidently was too cowardly to lend him a helping hand in securing the fleeing Chinese. He, however, consented to help bind the captive, for doing which he now lays claim to one half the reward, some $3000. It would appear from this that other people have "nerve" as well as sewing machine agents. We trust, however, that the entire sum will go to him who made the capture unaided and unarmed.

A Wild Prophecy Fulfilled.

When Goldensen, the murderer of Mammie Kelly, was on trial, Deputy District Attorney Regensburger, in his speech, predicted the murderer's death on the gallows. Goldenson jumped up and exclaimed: "Your neck will be broken before mine is." Strange to say on Wednesday last Regensberger fell down an elevator shaft and broke his neck.

WINE AND VINE NOTES.

VERY recently some most excellent wine was attempted to be objected to by, we suppose, a maker of French clarets, because he said that he had bought wine—since buying the wine alluded to—at ten cents a gallon. And thus it is, the quality of the wine is nothing, the digestions of the consumers should in no way be considered, but 'let us have any stuff' at ten cents per gallon. To their credit be it said certain San Francisco firms will not join in the Senitic search for trash.

CLOVERDALE we understand withstood all damage from frost, most fortunately for the vineyard proprietors, but we think that the good people there are making a very grand mistake. Their wines are very strong in saccharine and somewhat lacking in acid, so we would recommend them to thoroughly test vines of the Burgundy, Sherry, Maderia, Marsala or port wine types. The wines of the above district are excellent, but they alter, from the excess of saccharine, the supposed quality of the vine from which made. For example, there a claret grape will more probably produce a so-called Burgundy, a Rhenish vine will have a sherry tendency and the residents of the Bourgogne ape their Oporto brethren. The Feher Zagos should be tabooed, as it is a vine that in no way produces high-class results.

AT the forthcoming Mechanic's Fair our wines should be most thoroughly recommended to the public by thorough representation. By this we mean that sufficient quantities of all wines should be sent, so that without injuring the display, those interested in our wine productions can taste the wine that they see in glass. No open bar should be held, but it is too absurd to make a large showing of bottles and the really interested inquirers may only see what purports to be to be wine, but cannot test the quality.

NAPA county is well known for truthfulness. They never tell a lie over that way, but supposing one has to be told, it is ever a good one; for instance: "No damage from frost."

SCATTERING SHOTS.

The Morajah Duleep Sing, so long a pensioner of the English Government, has now appeared at St. Petersburg under the name of "Michael Casey." A very appropriate name, as he, having thrown up his allegiance in India to the "Raj," now poses as a Home Ruler.

The only satisfactory water bottle for soldiers is said to be that of Colonel Boyes of the Suffolk Regiment, H. M. army. It is made of a patent pulp, very light, weighing 9½ ounces, carries over a quart and cannot be broken. We wonder if the gallant colonel is any relation of our Capt. Boyes of Agua Rica.

General Boulanger, the present Minister of War in France, is said to have introduced the bicycle into the French army, so as to spare cavalry the fatigue of carrying dispatches. The idea was first utilized by the English Volunteers at Dover on Easter Monday and there proved successful. But let a bicyclist attempt to ride over roads such as we have seen, over which artillery, ammunition and commissariat trains and have passed during wet weather then "Oh Sheol!"

Santa Rosa Correspondence.

Glen Ellen seems to have been strongly represented in Santa Rosa on Saturday last, as I observed on the streets the Glen Ellen Constable. Mr. James Gibson, Mr. Laurence Watson and Fred Biolette and also Messrs Shaw, Thelen and Hamilton, all coming from the same thriving burg. The Glen Ellen wine interest was therefore largely represented.

Lay, Clark & Co., who are now entering the retail wine business for themselves in New York, are stocking their cellars with a large number of 3000-gallon oak ovals.

W. T. Coleman & Co. have gotten out a most excellent lithograph to advertise the wines of I. De Turk.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The best of accommodations at the Union Hotel. *

Go to the Occidental Hotel if you want good accommodations. †

The weather has been quite warm and pleasant the past week.

The traveling public are invited to call at the Union Hotel. *

Sonoma Brass Band has been engaged for the 4th of July celebration.

The traveling public praise the Occidental Hotel, R. D. Moore proprietor. †

Some fine strings of trout have been caught in Fowler creek the past week.

The public schools close next Friday for the regular summer vacation of six weeks.

Rev. E. H. King has been selected as Chaplain of the Day for the forthcoming Fourth of July celebration.

W. P. Wilson, the painter, is engaged in frescoing and otherwise improving the store recently occupied by A. F. Pauli & Co.

The case of H. E. Boyes vs. T. M. Leavenworth has been dismissed by plaintiff in Department Two of the Superior Court at Santa Rosa.

Virginia Piffera of this place has instituted proceedings for divorce against Bendetto Piffera in Department Two of the Superior Court.

The Occidental Hotel, under the management of Mr. R. D. Moore and his estimable wife, is growing in popularity every day. †

The Leak Glove Manufacturing Company are not afraid to advertise and call their gloves the best. Any man who drives knows how hard it is to get a good pair of gloves. Try their brand and see. *

Louis Bazoni, the wife-beater, sent up for thirty days by Justice Small, sued out a writ of habeas corpus in the Superior Court at Santa Rosa, last Tuesday. The proceedings failed and he was remanded back to jail to serve out his sentence.

The peach crop is so heavy in Sonoma Valley this season that our farmers have found it necessary to employ men to thin out the fruit in order to prevent the trees from breaking down and to improve the quality of the peaches.

District Attorney Pearce has caused to be arrested the past week quite a number of saloon keepers, who had failed to pay their saloon licenses as required by law. So far arrests have been made in Sonoma, Glen Ellen, Petaluma and Healdsburg and the end is not yet.

W. A. Tan, the Chinese merchant of this place, was arrested Saturday last by Marshal Vallejo for violating a city ordinance which prohibits the slaughtering of animals within the incorporated limits of the town. Tan plead guilty and was allowed to depart on paying costs.

Public Administrator Tivnen disposed at public auction in Petaluma, Wednesday, the personal effects of the late Christine Von Hollen. The property, which had been appraised at $44, was disposed of for $84, which goes to show that our Public Administrator is a decided success as an auctioneer.

The Agua Caliente Springs have became one of the most popular resorts on this coast. The property has been much improved during the past year and the swimming baths are being greatly enlarged and will be open for the accommodation of the public after the 15th inst. The hotel is already beginning to fill up with guests and there is every prospect of a very busy season. *

By announcement in another column it will be seen that Mr. Henry Weyl is a candidate for School Trustee at the election to be held next Saturday. Mr. Weyl has been prompted to submit his name to the voters of this school district at the urgent request of many of our best citizens. He has five children attending our public school and has always taken a lively interest in school matters, and if elected will make a good Trustee.

The entertainment on Wednesday evening next, June 1st, promises to be one of the finest we have had for a long while. The ladies of the Congregational Church have made unusual efforts and have succeeded in securing a company of fourteen (amatuers) from the city. These have given one or more entertainments in San Francisco, and have been greatly appreciated. Among the number is Sam Booth, well known for his powers to please. After the programme refreshments will be served. Doors open at 7:30, exercises commence at 8. Union Hall.*

Charles Brosin, living on the C. W. Narloff place, three miles north of Sonoma, brought into town last Monday the tanned hide of a coyote. The animal was a large one for his species and was killed by Mr. Brosin about four miles north of town. Its skin will be sent to Santa Rosa and a claim put in against the county for $10, the amount of bounty offered for coyote scalps. Mr. Brosin was compelled to shoot the animal from the left shoulder, as his right arm is disabled from paralysis, but notwithstanding this he brought the animal down with the first shot from his shotgun.

THE FALSE CINCH BUG.

What the Chief Viticultural Officer Has to Say About the Pest.

Recently Mr. Schubrick Norris of this place discovered that a number of his young vines were infested with a bug which threatened to work great injury to them. Securing a specimen he forwarded the same to J. H. Wheeler, Chief Viticultural Officer, for inspection. That gentleman has pronounced the pest the "false cinch bug". In a letter to Mr. Norris he says: "This pest has appeared in other localities before and has always disappeared after doing slight damage to a few spots. It appears the vines affected on your place are young vines with no crop. In this case the proper method is to spray the foliage with a solution of Paris green, (a poison) using about 180 gallons of water to one pound of Paris green, after which the grapes on the same, if they are yet formed, can be removed to avoid danger from poisoning. In addition to this sprinkle some fine straw under the vines. The bugs will crawl into this and it may be raked up afterward and burned. You will probably lose your vines if treated with coal oil, which I understand you intend doing. If the vines affected have fruit you wish to save, then spray the vines with a tobacco solution, marking 5 or 6 degrees Baume scale. Or, if you do not have the Baume scale, (one used in the wine cellar,) it should mark about 10 per cent solid contents, or 10 degrees Ballings scale. For my own purpose I should use the Paris green without fear, as the grapes are not far enough along to be affected. However, some fear the the poisonous effects of Paris green."

For Frosted Vines.

J. H. White, who is considered an authority on wine matters, suggests the following for badly frosted vines: To avoid a superabundance of small wood and to produce good canes for next year's fruiting, cut off on short-pruned vines all frosted shoots up to the last bud and keep the vine free from all suckers which do not show fruit. This treatment forces the secondary bud which is immediately below the frosted shoot, which on prolific varieties will give a partial crop. It also forces out the buds which may have remained dormant up to the present. Vines pruned according to the Guyot system should have the long canes of last year's growth pruned to short spurs, to force the dormant fruit buds, almost invaribly found near the base, thereby securing a partial crop and well-developed canes for next year.

A Phenomenon.

[Santa Rosa Democrat.]

Discoveries of peculiar formations in rocks are of such frequent occurrence as to cause little comment and less interest unless it be from scientists and geologists, but phenomena like the following are perhaps none the less common, but being susceptible of an explanation within the scope of an ordinary mind's comprehension are clothed with more than common interest. An acorn in a perfect state of preservation was found imbedded in the solid body of a redwood tree three feet in diameter, which was cut down at G. M. Meeker's last week. The acorn was imbedded in the wood about 17 inches from the bark, and three inches from the heart of the tree. It was thought by a number of lumbermen who saw it that the acorn must have been placed in a hole in the bark of the tree by a bird as many as two or three hundred years ago.

The Home Paper.

The most truthful saying is that a newspaper is like a church, it wants fostering; then it can reflect credit upon its location. Take your home paper. It gives you more interesting news than all outside papers; it talks for you when other localities belie you; you always have a champion in your home paper, and those who stand up for you should certainly be well sustained. Therefore, it is to your interest to support your home paper; not grudgingly, but in a liberal spirit; as a pleasure, not as a disagreeable duty, and as an investment that will pay the expenditure.—Clear Lake Press.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure and get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Glen Ellen Notes.

Our hotels are crowded with guests.

Heavy winds prevailed here the past week, making travel dusty and disagreeable.

A game of baseball was played last Sunday at the Glen Ellen park between the "Gibsons" and "Crofoote" the former coming out victorious.

Kohler & Frohling are manufacturing a number of tanks, pipes and barrels. John Ludeman and E. Gilbert of Sonoma are doing the work.

The Native Sons of this place held a large meeting last Saturday evening and quite a number of new members were admitted.

Dr. Sporogle has returned from San Francisco and is now ready for business. The doctor is a nice gentleman, comes well recommended and we hope to see him a permanent resident.

OLD TIMER.

The New Wine Law.

J. H. Drummond of Glen Ellen has been selected by the Grape-Growers' and Wine-Makers' Association as one of a committee of nine to see that the Pure Wine Law and Stamp Act is enforced. The other members of the committee are: M. M. Estee, Napa; J. B. J. Portal, Santa Clara; Capt. Chamon de St. Hubert, Fresno; H. A. Pellet, St. Helena; A. Erz, Anaheim; Jacob Schramm, Calistoga; H. A. Marriam, Los Gatos and B. H. Upham, San Francisco. If the members of this committee find any adulterated wines they are to notify the District Attorney to institute suit for condemnation. Under the head of adulterations are classed salycilic acid, glucose, cherry juice, analine dyes and wines fortified by grain spirits. As every member of the committee is a wine-maker, and interested in protecting his wine from tamperers, effective work is expected.

Mystery Solved.

An Associated Press dispatch says: George Gilmore, an insane man, supposed fully restored after a year in the Napa Asylum, in company with his father-in-law, in February last, escaped at Santa Rosa, en route to his home in Crescent City. His relatives have been searching constantly ever since. The mystery was solved to-day. Osseo Buckner, aged fourteen, while hunting horses, found a skeleton on the summit of a mountain five miles northeast of Santa Rosa. The boy and his father examined the remains and found papers and clothes bearing the name of G. Gilmore. His wife and children reside in Del Norte county.

School Census.

Jas. McDonnell, Jr., has completed the school census for Sonoma district. From it we glean the following: Whole number of school children between the ages of five and seventeen, 336. Of these 174 are boys and 162 are girls. Number of children under five years, 86; native born parents, 114; foreign born parents, 258; one parent foreign born, 50; number of children born in district the past year, 11.

PERSONAL.

S. H. and O. B. Shaw have gone to Lake county on a health and pleasure trip.

Robert Collins, one of the fastest type-setters on the coast is rusticating in Sonoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Culvert of Willows, Sacramento county, are visting at Mr. and Mrs. R. Crothers.

Few People Escape

The taint of scrofula in the blood. With many it is hereditary; but it may also be acquired from want of air or lack of exercise, from improper food or any cause which brings about weakness of the body or impurity of the blood. The disease is characterized by running sores, abssesses, swellings, enlarged joints, sore eyes, etc. No medicine has been so successful in curing scrofula as Hood's Sarsaparilla. The most terrible running sores gradually disappear under the purifying and strengthening influences of this great medicine. If you are a sufferer from scrofula, and desire more evidence as to the wonderful success of Hood's Sarsaparilla, send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for a book containing many remarkable cures.

COUNTY CULLINGS.

It is rumored that Glen Ellen is to have another store.

Dr. A. B. Stuart of Santa Rosa was stricken with paralysis on Friday afternoon of last week. His condition is described as being critical.

D. R. Gale, Assistant District Attorney, has resigned. Differences of opinion with District Attorney Pearce in the prosecution of saloon-keepers is the cause.

A. Wagner, who formerly published a German paper in Santa Rosa, and who was committed to the Napa asylum several months ago, has been discharged from that institution as cured.

The Santa Rosa and Carquinez Railroad Company filed articles of incorporation with the County Recorder last Saturday. This is the road in which the Southern Pacific people are interested.

Tom Bates, the noble red man of the forest, who attempted to transport another aborigine to the happy hunting grounds by the bowie-knife route, near Healdsburg, several week ago, has been sentenced to six months in the County Jail.

Four saloon keepers were arrested in Petaluma, Saturday, by Constable Tighe for non-payment of liquor license and taken to Santa Rosa. They were immediately taken before a Judge and were allowed to depart after paying their back licenses in full and cost of proceedings.

Cakes Without Eggs.

In a little book just published by the Judson Printing Co., New York, a large number of practical, though novel, receipts are given for making cakes of various kinds, from the informal griddle-cake to the stately bride-cake, without eggs, by the use of the Royal Baking Powder. Experienced housekeepers inform us that this custom has already gained large precedence over old-fashioned methods in economical kitchens, and that the product is frequently superior to that where eggs are used, and that less butter is also required for shortening purposes. The advantage is not alone in the saving effected, but in the avoidance of the trouble attendant upon securing fresh eggs, and the annoyance of of an occasional cake spoiled by the accidental introduction of an egg that has reached a little too nearly the incubatory period. The Royal Baking Powder invariably insures perfectly light, sweet and handsome cake, or when used for griddle cakes to be eaten hot enables their production in the shortest possible space of time, and makes them most tender and delicious as well as entirely wholesome. There is no other preparation like it.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years afflicted with Phthisic, also Diabetes; the pains were almost unendurable and would almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from the first bottle and after takirg six bottles was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh eighteen pounds. Says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Ed. Wegner.

In the Sullivan-Felton investigation at San Jose, yesterday, the ballots of the Fourth ward were recounted. Henry Beuler, Republican, testified that fifty-three Republican ballots were marked with red ink to distinguish them. These marked ballots will be rejected and Felton will lose fifty-three votes.

Enjoy Life

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER, will make them as free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of AUGUST FLOWER will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. 1

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

No matter fair maiden, how lovely your dimples,
If your face is disfigured with blotches and pimples,
You may spend all the money there is in your purse
For washes and paints, they'll but make matters worse.

'T will remove every moth-spot and blemish indeed;
After using awhile, if you look in the glass,
You will scarcely believe you behold the same lass.

The Apache Scouts.

The late report of Mr. Herbert Welsh upon the Apache Indians of Fort Marion, in Florida, has naturally attracted a great deal of attention. Mr. Welsh is not only one of the most intelligent and experienced of witnesses in everything that concerns the Indians, but he cannot be suspected of any personal or sinister motive, nor of any mere mawdlin or sentimental philanthropy. On the other hand, the prejudice against the Indians is so very strong that there is great impatience in any plea for their humane and just treatment, and a disposition to feel that the more rigorously they are treated the better. Mr. Welsh states in his report that of the eighty-two Apache men now imprisoned at Fort Marion not more than thirty have been guilty of any of the recent acts of hostility, while many of the remainder, like Chatto, were employed in our army as regularly commissioned scouts, first by General Crook and afterwards by General Miles, to assist our soldiers in following and securing Geronimo and his hostile band. In Washington Chatto was kindly received. Secretary Lamar gave him a medal and Mr. Lamar junior testifies that since Chatto's return to the reservation in 1883 "he has lived peacefully with mankind, exerting a good influence over his people." Yet Chatto is one of the prisoners at Fort Marion.

There are others whose services are rewarded in the same way by imprisonment with the hostile Apaches, against whom they fought bravely and faithfully on our side. Formerly, undoubtedly, these Indians were cruel and dangerous savages. But they are now and have long been allies whose fidelity has been proved, and the consequences of treating them as enemies are treated may be readily surmised. The reports of surbordinate officers, captains, lieutenants and others, to their superiors, carefully detailing the operations against the Apaches in 1885-6, are full of testimonies to the fidelity of the friendly Apache scouts. In looking over these reports we do not find any mention of them which is not favorable. At the end of last year, after the surrender of Geronimo and his chiefs, with their followers, General Crook, who had served eight years among the Indians of Arizona, submitted a report to the Adjutant-General reviewing the operations against the Apaches. In this report he asserts: "Without reserve or qualification of any nature, that these Chiricahua (Apache) scouts, under Chiefs Chatto, Noche and others, did most excellent service, and were of more value in hunting down and compelling the surrender of the renegades than all the troops engaged in operations against them combined." Captain Crawford's command, which, the Lieutenant-General says, except for his assassination by Mexicans, would have ended the cruel and bloody atrocities that continued for many months, was composed wholly of these scouts; and General Crook adds that the surrender of Geronimo to General Miles "was accomplished solely by the use, not only of scouts, but of Chiricahua (Apache) scouts." These are the men who are imprisoned in Fort Marion with the enemy whom they helped to subdue. Mr. Welsh has but done his duty in calling public attention to the subject.

Such treatment of friendly Indians is wrong, and therefore it is impolitic. "I am sure," says Burke, in speaking of the British treatment of our fathers—"I am sure that the natural effect of fidelity, clemency and kindness, in governors, is peace, good-will, order and esteem on the part of the governed. I would certainly at least give these fair principles a fair trial." Burke was not speaking of savages. But the experience of Generals Crook and Miles, and of other able and intelligent soldeirs who know the Indians well, and who have served among and against them, confirms the wisdom of the great Irish statesman.

"Are you sure he is dead?" asked the insurance agent of the widow of a deceased miser.

"Certain of it."

"What proof have I of it?"

"There were twenty carriages in his funeral that I ordered myself."

"How does that prove his death."

"Ah, sir, you didn't know him. If Tom had been the least bit alive he'd kicked at the expense, sure."

Florist, to young man—Do you notice the blush upon these roses, sir? Young man, feeling for his pocket book—Yes. They are probably blushing at the price.

Inquisitive Old Party—My good man, can you tell me who is dead? Newly Arrived Hiberpian—No, sir honor, but oi think it's the gentleman in the hearse yonder.

WHAT KILLS AMERICANS.

Fast Living—Reckless Eating—Hard Drinking—Poor Sleeping—Social Jealousy—Political Ambition—Violent Passions—The Race for Money.

The alarming disease of this country is nervous debility and prostration. It goes under many names but it is essentially the same complaint. Hospitals and private institutions for nervous patients are crowded. The average of life in the United States is decreasing every year. Sudden deaths from nervous collapse among our business, professional and public men are so frequent as scarcely to excite remark. The majority of suicides, committed without apparent reason, or under so-called "depression of spirits," are really prompted by nervous prostration, which is a fruitful source of insanity and crime with all their grief and horror.

These facts are startling. They threaten the very life of the nation. They assail the springs of its power and prosperity. They wreck manhood's strength and woman's usefulness and beauty.

Every one should know the causes. What are they? The answer is easy and terribly plain: Our vicious personal habits; our careless and lawless eating and drinking; the intense mental and physical strain arising from our mad race after money, position and influence; the fears and struggles of poverty; the use of narcotics and stimulants; our fashion of turning day into night and night into day; and, briefly, our desperate willingness to pay any price for an hour's pleasure or success. So we burn life's candle at both ends and fill the lunatic asylums and the graveyards.

The disease from which we suffer and die is, in plain English, Nervous Dyspepsia, as it is seated in the Nerves and in the organs of Digestion, Assimilation and Nutrition. Healthy digestion being impeded or destroyed, the whole body, nerves included, is literally starved; even when there is no emaciation to tell the sad story.

Nervous prostration sends out its warnings:—headache in the morning; a persistent dull heaviness or aching at the base of the brain; wakefulness; loss of appetite and disgust with food; loss of mental energy and interest in ordinary duties and business; restlessness and anxiety without any assignable reason; eructations; bad breath; foul mucous on the teeth; occasional giddiness; palpitation of the heart; sallowness of the skin; coated tongue and gradual failure of strength and ambition.

The remedy is a total abandonment of the habits and customs which cause the disease in each individual case, and the use of Shaker Extract of Roots (Seigel's Syrup) to cure the mischief already done. This great remedy, prepared by the Shaker Community of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y., is especially adapted to eradicate Nervous Dyspepsia. To do this it acts directly and gently but powerfully upon the disordered stomach, liver and kidneys, restoring their tone and vigor, promoting the secretion of bile, expelling waste matters from the system, and purifying the blood.

Upon the nervous system Shaker Extract (Seigel's Syrup) acts as a safe and wholesome anodyne without the slightest narcotic effect, and then leaves the nerves to regain their natural tone and strength through its wonderful influence upon the function of nutrition.

It is safe to say more nervous dyspeptics have been restored by it from the depths of misery to a fresh enjoyment of life and labor than by any or all other forms of treatment combined.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Stoutland, Mo., writes: "I stand up and show that a Washer ever was hard labor and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off of mens as this Washer takes off the women, and save as much money as it does and cost as much, I could afford to pay for it if they had to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it."

JOHN E. DODGE, JR., Boonville, Missouri, writes: "You sent what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. It is the best machine over invented by man. $2. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. $2. If you are a lover, you can not buy ours for $1000."

I will ship a sample to those desiring an agency on a week's trial at liberal terms. A thousand per cent. the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.

TRIED IN THE CRUCIBLE,

TRADE S.S.S. MARK

About twenty years ago I discovered a little sore on my cheek, and the doctors pronounced it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise every one with cancer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.
